

Application No. 97: Spice Rack

Author: A. Leutbecher, Soest, Germany

You can be proud of such a beautiful spice rack

Here is my magnet application, which is not only particularly original and useful, but also creative and highly aesthetic: the Magnetic Spice Rack, guaranteed to get looks and difficult to surpass in practicality.

Take a steel plate in the proper size, lacquer it in the same color as your kitchen (or leave it, as you choose), attach it to the wall with dowels and screws, and you're ready to begin the colorful crafting of your spice rack.

Buy a number of round, 100ml wide-neck glass containers with Bakelite screw tops. I used these containers (www.boesner.com/boesner/servlet/frontend/articleDetail.html?btUid=bt_Article&iDf_id=c0a81ea:bc71bd:fe2dd0ed42:-4613), available at Boesner.

Hide a S-20-05-N (www.supermagnete.de/eng/S-20-05-N) magnet under the cap of the glass then fill with the spice of your choice.

Use as many containers as you want and as long as there is space on the steel plate!

If desired, you can name the contents of the containers with a permanent marker or with a sticker.

There is no limit as to how you can place the spices: according to color, according to fill level, according to granularity, shelf life, or simply according to the principle of chaos ...

Have fun building your own Spice Rack!
